The War on the Rio Grande--- Excitement at Brownsville---Interesting Details. The Despatch published Saturday stated that it was almost certain that Brownsville, Texas, had been captured by the Mexican bandits, under Cortinas, and that the Mexican population on both sides of the Rio Grande were in arms against the Amer icans. These statements, it is to be hoped, are considerably exaggerated, but the previous accounts were exceedingly threatening. The Brownsville Flag (extra) contains the following details of occur rences anterior to the reported capture of the town: It appears that a force had been organized in Brownsville for the purpose of attacking Cortinas' band; it was composed of about 60 rancheres and 20 Americans on our side and 50 of the Matamoras infantry, under Lt. Col. Lurunea, the force from our side being under the command of Capt. Thompson They carried with them a four pounder belonging to the Mexican forces, and a four-pound howitzer belonging to Captain Kennedy. They arrived at the ranche of Cortinas's mother, which they found in possession of about twenty men, who retreat d after firing one or two volleys. During the firing its carriage. Six or seven mounted Americans went and retook the gun, but being unable to remount it, and failing to get any assistance from the infantry, they flually abandoned it.

About this time the route of the attacking party became general. Most all of the mounted men had left, the majority of the infantry followed, and at last the few that had remained with the little howitzer at the carral, finding themselves unaided, and so few in number that they were unable to put the gun into the river or destroy the ammunition as they desired, left also. Antonio Espinasa and others got it into the river afterward, but Cortinas has since got it out. The preparations for the expedi-tion were miserable; few had percussion caps for more than four or five charges; many of the car-tridges were found to be too large for the muskets, and at the close of the attack, when an attempt was made to rally, it was found that there was not suffi-c, ant amunition for a single round. As it is, Cortinas ,von a victory, and is in possession of two very efficient pieces of artillery, all the ammunition be longing to them, a large keg of rifle powder, and some provisions which were were on the route when the flight took place. From the reports of Col. Lu-runca and Mr. Thomas, Cartinas lins some 250 or 300 men, but others estimate he forces as far loss. But few of the bandits were seen at any one time. Cortinas will now be able greatly to imcrease his band. having artillery and the prestige of victory to aid him. On the 24th ult., he again stopped the U. S. mail coming from Laredo, ent it open, examined each letter in it, opening all but two, kept the mail rider until te-day, and then sent him down with such of the open letters and way bills as he did not care to retain. This mail rider left him examining the contents of the mail which had arrived that morning from Brownsville.

Some seventy felons, under sentence in the prisons of Victoria, had been released by the populace, and had levied their contributions on the rich of that place. They have since recruited others, until it is reported that they have a large band, who are visiting and robbing the ranches, and they expect finally to make their way out to Matamoras and Brownsville. The daily and nightly watches are most unremittingly continued. At daylight, on Friday, one of the picket guard on the outskirts of the town saw two armed men skulking in the bushes, but they took fright and fled. About dark, the same day, Mr. Campbell, a printer by trade, and deputy sheriff, who has a family living in the suburb of Ramireno, about a mile and a half above town, went up to see them -he rode a good horse and was armed with a Sharp's rifle and a six-shooter; a Mexican went up with him, also mounted on a good horse. They had hardly got into the house when ten heavily armed bandits surrounded them, took Mr. Campbell orisoner, took his horse and arms, also robbed the Mexican of his horse, saidle and bridle, made prisoners of four well-disposed Mexicans living at Ramireno and took them all off, except the one who accompanied Mr. Campbell, towards the camp of Cortinas. The families of the prisoners are in the greatest distress. Appeal of an American Church to English Abolitionists. Some time last summer a paragraph was copied from some of the English newspapers, stating that a Miss Johnstone had made her appearance in England for the purpose of collecting money to sustain

Dr. Cheever's church in the city of New York. As general thing the statement was entirely discred ited. The New York Times however, says: We republish from the British Standard a letter from Dr. Cheever himself to Mr. Spurgeon, which leaves no room for further doubt. In his letter Dr. Cheever represents his church as a missionary es-tablishment for the dissemination of Abolitionism among the New York heathen, and as in danger of being immediately crushed and destroyed without pecuniary aid. He speaks of himself as an apostle of the only true faith—as "preaching just such sermons as are especially needed here at the present mo-ment"—and as the only elergyman who "freely, fully and persistently" proclaims the Word of God on this subject in New York. He considers it almost a miracle that a "thorough Opinions of the Supreme Court of the This valuable and popular hadicine, proposed in suctor Section of Taxable and Torm, 1859.

This is a bill filed by the complainants, James B. Scay and Joseph S. Seay, who are infants, to recover of the defendants, Young and Cowan, a slave by the name of Leah, and her children, five in number. The sup-posed right to exist in complainants is derived from the will of their grand-father, William Peatross, of Caroline county in the State of Viscous who died Caroline county in the State of Virginia, who died Billions and Pobrille Diseases, Sick Headache, Loss of Appetite, Indigention, and all similar complaints, pseudority They allege that under said will their mother, Jemima, who was a daughter of said William Pea-tross, the testator, took a life estate in the slave

Somewhere between the years 1825 and 1829, Jomima Pestross, then living, as it is probable arrived at the age of 21 years, intermarried in said county of Caroline, with William B. Seav, the father of the complainants, who are the only issues of that marriage; and either shortly before, or after, the marriage, received into possession the slave Leah, under said will; after which she and her husband, with said slave, removed to the county of Haywood with said slave, removed to the county of Haywood in this State, where the said Jemima departed this In fact, it is incalled and cares takers a Gentle Aperion in this State, where the said Jemima departed this life in the year 1842.

The defendants claim said slaves by purchase, made of the said William B. Seay, the father of complainants, and husband of Jemima, in the year 1846.

They deny that complainants took any remainder under said Jill, and insist that the slave Leah, by the force of said will, become the abcolute property of the said Jemima; and that upon her marriage with William B. Seay the slave became his, and that he might fawfully sell them, and that they acquired a perfect title. And the question is, whether complainants or defendants have the better title.

no difficulty in making equal division among his children, when the period for final division ahould come, empowers his executors to assess the value of the property already given off to his children, or to select three disinterested men to do so. And lastly, he gives to his wife, during life, or widow-hood, certain chattle property; and provides at her death, or marriage, the same to be divided "as before stated."

It is probable from this record, that Amy Peatross, the widow of the is stator, survived the marriage of her daughter Jemina, but died hefore the death of the said Jemina. At all events, it is shown that the slave Leah, was allotted to the said Jemina under the said Jemima. At all events, it is shown that the slave Leah, was allotted to the said Jemima under the second clause of the will upon her coming of age, or marriage, and not in the general division of the estate.

The can, we think, he no doubt, upon a proper construction of this will, that complainants took no interest whatever in the slave Leah; and that in the events that have happened she became the absolinc estate of their mother, the said Jemima, and passed by the materiage, to her husband. In the construction of this will all its parts are to packed in boxes or casks; battles, boxes, beller those to taken with reference to each other; and the including taken barries of boxes are and are including barries of boxes are acceptable.

In the construction of this will all its parts are to be taken with reference to each other; and the intention of the testator collected from the entire instrument.—I Sneed, 394,

The true meaning of the first chause of the will undoubtedly is, that the widow of the testator is to have an estate for life, or widowhood, in the hand and slaves given her; and at her death or marriage, the same, with merense, is to be equally divided among such of the testator's children as may three died before that period of division, then they took the share of a deceased of division, then they took the share of the surviving issue of such of division, then they took the share of the wild were none at the time of division, the share of a deceased child but if the child left no children, or there were none at the time of division, the share of a deceased of the testator whose parents were living when the particular extate of his widow ceased, and that under this clause complainants can claim nothing the particular extate of his widow ceased, and that under this clause complainants can claim nothing the particular extate of his widow ceased, and that under this clause complainants can claim nothing their mother having survived the widow of the testator whose parents were living when the particular extate of his widow ceased, and that under this clause complainants can claim nothing their mother having survived the widow of the testator whose parents were living when the particular extate of his widow ceased, and that under this clause complainants can claim nothing their mother having survived the widow of the testator. The desire to all his children in that clause, and the words "to them as before stated, forever." have precisely this before stated, forever." have precisely this and their lawful issue, or the survivors of them as before stated, forever," have precisely this meaning.

The words "as before stated" refer expressly to the first clause; and can have no other meaning than that the children slive at the period of the final disease. The survivors of them as the children slive at the period of the final disease. The survivors of them as the children slive at the period of the final disease. The survivors of them as the children slive at the period of the final disease. that the children alive at the period of the final division and the children then hiving of such as may have died "except the children of Nancy," are to take an absolute estate.

These words controlled the estate to be divided at the death or marriage of the widow; and then to provide for the care of children who might be under age, or unmarried at the period of general division, (the death or marriage of the widow being possible at any time) and who might die ibertoy make publication of the warrant and arrest of mid itsemboat, her machinery, boals, tackle, apparel and furniture, and under another of the Han West H.
